Judges.

Mr. Taft in his speech at Charlotte called the Federal judiciary "the strongest bulwark that we have in this country to protect ultimately our institutions of civil liberty," and proclaimed as the rule governing his own policy in relation to appointments that "there is no more sacred duty than the Executive has than in the selection of men whose appointment and service on the bench will strengthen it (the Constitution) with all the people at large."

Nothing that Mr. Taft is likely to do as President can be of more importance to the country than his selection of Federal Judges, says the New York World. He has already expressed the opinion that "the greatest question now before the American public is the improvement of the administration of justice, civil and criminal," but there can be no such improvement unless men who are in sympathy with reformed procedure are named for the bench.

Our courts have inherent powers that are beyond the authority of any Congress or Legislature to change. They have constitutional powers such as have been vested by no other country in such tribunals. No Congress, no Legislature, can enact a law abridging the constitutional rights of any American citizen unless the court acquiesces. No statute can deny justice or work injustice unless the courts co-operate to give it validity. Indeed, the only law that has a practical existence in this country is such law as the courts will construe and enforce.

Whatever Congress or Legislatures may try to do to diminish the law's delay, the final reform must lie in the judiciary itself, which has the power to interpret what the legislative department has done. Without waiting for legislative action the courts can hasten and cheapen the process of justice by quickening the procedure and by denying appeals that are based on mere technicalities.

The Supreme Court Justices of the State of New York are preparing to form an association which among other things is to consider this matter of expediting procedure. Such an association can remedy most of the serious abuses that have arisen in the administration of justice in this State, and its potentiality for good is immeasurable. The World trusts that the Judges who are promoting the organization will carry it on to completion. New York needs co-operation among the men that construe and apply the law.

While the Federal judiciary, as Mr. Taft says, is the strongest bulwark "to protect ultimately our institutions of civil liberty," it is to the State courts that the average citizen must look for the administration of justice in matters that most immediately concern his welfare. It is not the Federal courts but the State courts that interpret the constitution and laws of the State in relation to its citizens, and the State laws are those that are closest to the daily life of the people.

In a republic, there is no more exalted service than any man can perform than to be "a just and upright Judge," whether he be a Federal Judge or a State Judge.

Where the People Are Heard.

There are Americans who find no virtue in the United States Senate; who now criticize that body because it does not permit its presiding officer to pass bills by the gavel; who weary of Senate debates and who call for precipitate action on the tariff, good or bad, as the one sure forerunner of prosperity.

It is a strange conception of government which will not tolerate deliberation, which has no regard for publicity, which accepts at sight anything that is offered and which is wholly satisfied with haste and silence. These are the sorry characteristics of the House of Representatives. If it were not for the Senate, where debate is free, the people would have little voice in the legislative branch of their own government.

The task upon which the Senate is now engaged is the enactment of a law intended to produce annually a revenue of $300,000,000 or more. It is a prodigious measure of taxation. The burden actually to be placed upon the people is much greater than the sum here named, for the entire proceeds of indirect taxation do not find their way into the treasury.

Levying a tax of $300,000,000 a year, however, is an important matter. Justly imposed, such an impost would be cheerfully borne; unjustly, it would lead to hardship and disaster. Fairly distributed, the levy would promote good will and a feeling of security; unfairly it would engender class prejudice and discontent. If this law shall have a life of ten years it will take from the people's earnings and estates more than three thousand millions, to say nothing of the other millions by its terms transferred to the hands of favored interests.

What business is more important than this? To what subject can we address ourselves more profitably than to this? Where shall prosperity and peace and justice be found if not in the terms of such legislation as this?

Divorce Decree Made Public.

It was made public Tuesday by the entering of the decree that a divorce was granted to Mrs. Belle Wisdom Bronston, in the Circuit Court at Lexington on April 12, two days before the sudden death of Mr. Bronston. The decree simply grants the divorce and restores Mrs. Bronston's maiden name of Miss Belle Wisdom. Miss Belle Wisdom, as she will be hereafter known, will in all probability make her home in Lexington, where she has many devoted friends and large property interests.

A Joke.

It naturally follows that if the subject is dropped the discussion is broken up.—Corn-Fed Philosopher.

Nursing Mothers and Over-burdened Women

In all stations of life, whose vigor and vitality may have been undermined and broken-down by over-work, exacting social duties, the too frequent bearing of children, or other causes, will find in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the most potent, invigorating and restorative strength ever devised for their special benefit. Nursing mothers will find it especially valuable in sustaining their strength and promoting an abundant nourishment for the child. Expectant mothers too will find it a priceless safeguard against the system for baby's coming and rendering the ordeal comparatively painless. It can do no harm in any state, or condition of the female system.

Delicately, nervously, weak women, who suffer from frequent headaches, back-ache, dragging-down distress low down in the abdomen, or from painful or irregular monthly periods, yawning or distressed sensation in stomach, dizzy or faint spells, see imaginary specks or spots floating before eyes, have disagreeable, pelvic catarrhal drain, prolapsus, anteversion or retro-version or other displacements of womanly organs from weakness of parts will, whether they experience many or only a few of the above symptoms, find relief and a permanent cure by using faithfully and fairly persistently Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

This world-famed specific for woman's weaknesses and peculiar ailments is a pure glyceric extract of the choicest native, medicinal roots without a drop of alcohol in its make-up. All its ingredients printed in plain English on its bottle wrapper and attested under oath. Dr. Pierce thus invites the fairest investigation of his formula knowing that it will be found to contain only the best agents known to the most advanced medical science of all the different schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and ailments.

If you want to know more about the composition and professional endorsement of the "Favorite Prescription," send postal card request to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his free booklet treating of same.

You can't afford to accept as a substitute for this remedy of known composition a secret nostrum of unknown composition. Don't do it.
